

Friday 1st May

Hello everybody! How are you all? I hope you are all keeping safe and well. This week's weather has been a bit of a shock compared to the lovely warm weather we have had! I've had to put more layers on again but have still enjoyed getting out for my daily walk and I have loved seeing all the different flowers and plants growing. It seems that every time I go out there are more and more spring flowers. The yellow ones, called cowslips, are my favourite wild flower.

I have seen pictures of lots of you in your pyjamas today enjoying reading. I did the same this morning - I like snuggling up with a good story!

I'll write again next week. Take care.
Love from Mrs Mulligan x