

Toilet Roll Frog

You will need:

- Toilet paper roll
- Green poster paint
- White poster paint
- Red poster paint
- Stapler
- Pencil
- Sticky tape
- A piece of string (about 20cms)
- Green card (optional)
- 2 googly eyes (optional)
- Frog Template
- Paintbrush
- White glue (such as PVA)
- Glue spreader or brush
- Scissors

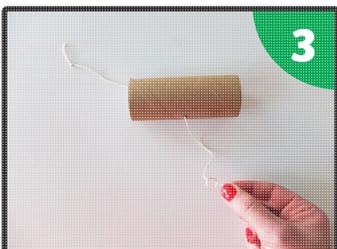

What To Do:

In preparation, print out the Frog Template. Or if you feel confident copying the shapes and drawing your own, you can skip this step.

2 Lay the toilet roll down and mark the middle of the roll with a pencil. Carefully, push the pencil through the toilet roll to make a hole.

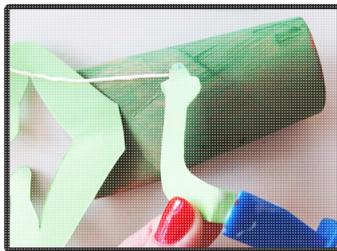

3 Thread the piece of string through the hole. Knot each end so that it cannot be pulled all the way through the hole.

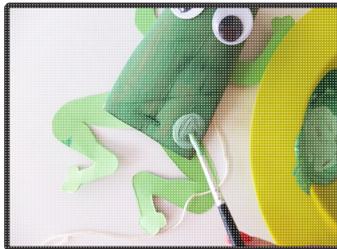

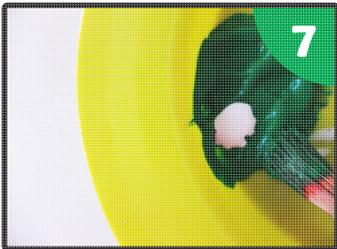

4 Squeeze one end of the toilet paper roll together so it is flat. Carefully, staple along the edge to hold it flat. If you don't have a stapler and staples, use strong sticky tape.

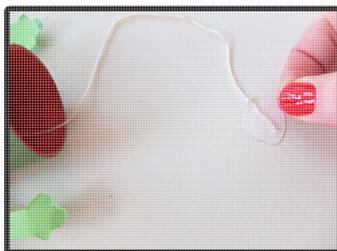

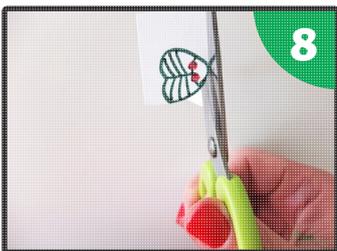

5 Paint the outside of the toilet paper roll green. Then paint the inside of the roll red.

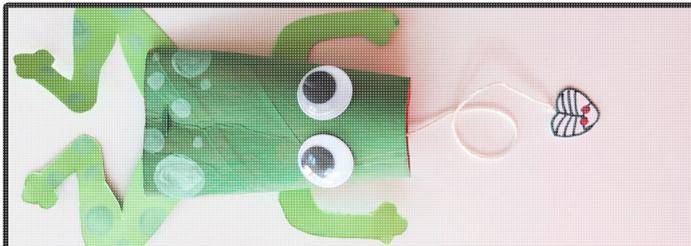

Carefully cut out the frog's legs and eyes from the Frog Template, or draw your own. Stick the legs and googly eyes on to your frog using glue.

Mix up some light green paint, by adding a little white paint to the green paint. Paint circles of light green paint onto the frog's body and back legs.

Finally, cut out the bug from the Frog Template, or draw your own. Attach to the end of the string in the inside of the tube using sticky tape. When you pull the knot on the outside your frog will look as if it is eating its bug!
